Level II Market Data shows multiple bids and asks for any given stock so investors can better determine the availability or desire for a stock at a certain price. Bids are like limit buy orders that other investors have open on the markets. Similarly, asks are like limit sell orders from other investors. Like any limit order, each bid and ask is represented by the price and quantity of the order. Level Level 2: Robin Hood Data is unique because it shows more than just the best bid and best ask on the market. It also Level 2: Robin Hood the full depth of orders on the market, including quantities at the individual bids and asks. Some traders compare how many shares are on each side of the Level 2: Robin Hood as an indication of the short term direction of the price. Investors often use this data in conjunction with the price chart representing recent trades. The price chart on Robinhood is the main chart available on our stock page. The main price chart on the stock page represents the prices of recent trades on that stock. On the other hand, Level II Data represents a current snapshot of pending orders for that stock.
